

PENDENNIS HOTEL

9660 - 9664 JASPER AVENUE NW

CITY OF EDMONTON HISTORIC RESOURCE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

DESCRIPTION OF HISTORICAL PLACE

The Pendennis Hotel, also known as the Lodge Hotel, consists of a three-storey brick mixed use building in a mid-block location on the north side of Jasper Avenue in the Boyle Community that was the centre of Edmonton's pre-WWI downtown.

HERITAGE VALUE

The Pendennis Hotel is significant for its association with the early development of Edmonton's civic core and the Boyle community, one of Edmonton's older settled neighbourhoods. It is one of a collection of surviving and important Jasper Avenue buildings associated with Edmonton's early social and commercial life. It was converted to apartments in the 1920's after prohibition laws came into effect.

The Pendennis Hotel is also significant because of its architecture which is a prominent example of an Edwardian-era combination of ground floor commercial and upper-level residential functions. The building displays high-quality materials and design in the construction of its main façade. The Pendennis Hotel is is also significant because of its association with the Calgary architectural firm Land, Major & Company, a Calgary-based partnership established in 1911. They designed many prominent civic and commercial buildings in Calgary.

CHARACTER DEFINING ELEMENTS

The Edwardian-era architecture of the building is expressed in character defining elements such as:

- + form, scale, and massing;
- + regular fenestration, including two rows of wood double-hung windows at the second and third-floor levels on the front, east side, and rear elevations;
- + two, main floor wood-framed glazed storefronts with small-paned, prism glass transoms;
- + red pressed-brick façade construction with cast stone pilasters, horizontal bands and decorative features including swags in the pilaster capitals;
- + three symmetrically-located entrances, the central double-entrance with fanlight above, elevated parapet and modestly projecting central and end bays on the front façade;
- + upper pressed-metal cornice and sign band that extends the full width of the building with central arched pediment and large, end consoles; and
- + lower pressed-metal cornice and sign band that extends the full width of the building terminated by small volutes; and a large, painted wall sign on the east wall.
